For yesterday over the little known, but already respected links of the Knicker-bocker Country Club of Tenafty, N. J., the Shackamaxon professional annexed the first open championship held under the auspices of the New Jersey State Golf Association, scoring 75 and 75 for a total of 148.

Oswala Kiriby, the former Metropolitan and New Jersey amateur champion, had predicted the man who could make the thirty-six holes in 150 would with the title. OHara beat that mark by two strokes and his aggregate was three strokes better than the card of the second man. In addition to annexing the championship and first prize money for himself Peter saved the professionals from having to stand aside and see an other amateur walk away with an open title, Frank Dyer of Upper Montclair scoring 78 and 73, and easily taking second place.

Cyril Walker, the Englewood "pro," was three strokes behind Dyer with a nair of 77s, and Pat Doyle of Deal with a 71 and 78 was fourth. while he failed to perform well in the amateur-professional event on Tues-day it was apparent yesterday that there had been method in Peter O'Hara's madness. He had been saving up his golf for the big day. And the Shacka-maxon man's day it was in all con-science. Even the fates appeared to know that Peter was "due," for when in the afternoon he hit a second sho." noon he hit a second she' rolled into the ditch in front of the thirteenth green the ba was found within an inch of the water Out of luck O'Hara might have take six at this hole. Playing in winner uck he made it in three! For instea f having to lift and drop for the usus enalty as might easily have been thase he not only got a shot at the phere, but actually holed out.

This was the second of a sequence of three threes, the others being mad on short holes. On the fifteenth he has a six, caused by a visit to the rough After that slip O'Hara went on again playing perfect golf to the end. His card:
